- July 28th Governor Cooper issued Executive Order 153 ordering restaurants, breweries, wineries, distilleries, and other establishments which serve alcohol for on-site consumption to cease alcohol sales and service at 11:00 pm and not to resume sales until 7:00 am. This Executive Order goes into effect at 11:00 pm July 31st. Frequently Asked Questions associated with EO153 are also available for viewing.
- Clorox announced they might not be able to restock their wipes products in stores until 2021. They report that due to the upcoming cold and flu (season) and the pandemic likely being with us through 2020, it will take a year to get to supply levels necessary to meet demand. The company also reports its working to expand suppliers while manufacturing runs 24-7. Currently polyester spunlace is in short supply as it is a key ingredient in many wipes, personal protective equipment such as masks and medical gowns. Clorox is planning a huge increase in some of its other cleaning products, like liquid bleach, in the coming months. Some stores like Walmart are also offering an alert system that you can sign up for to see when wipes are available in stores.
- Recent considerations for how employees should prepare to return to work during the COVID-19 pandemic were updated on the CDC's website. The considerations include basic principles such as wearing a mask, considering the length of time you are interacting with others, and avoiding sharing equipment when possible.
- As of Aug. 10, the N.C. Division of Employment Security is awaiting federal guidance on the lost wages assistance program that may provide an additional $400 in weekly benefits. More information will be provided as it becomes available. Learn more from the N.C. Division of Employment Security.
- North Carolina Has First Reported SARS-CoV-2 Positive Case in Dog: The North Carolina Department of Health and Human Services has received its first reported case of a confirmed SARS-CoV-2 positive dog in North Carolina. SARS-CoV-2 is the virus that causes COVID-19 in humans. Read more here.

SCHOOLS

- Camden County Schools Board Of Education announced July 24th that schools will begin the 2020/2021 school year on Plan C, which is 100% remote learning for students for the first nine weeks grading period. Camden Early College High School will begin classes on August 12 and all other schools on August 17. It was also decided that Grandy Primary School will begin the school year with 100% remote learning with a target date of September 8 to transition to Plan B which is a mix of remote and face-to-face instruction with no more than 50% of students in the building at any given time and some strict safety guidelines in place. Information is available on Camden County Schools Remote Learning Page.
- The ECPPS Board of Education adopted the district plan for re-entry on Monday, July 27, 2020, during their regular meeting via livestream. ECPPS will return in August under a hybrid plan which is Plan B, Option F, from the state's Lighting Our Way Forward: North Carolina. The plan provides the district flexibility in determining what best meets the needs of families and the community. ECPPS will use Option F to begin 2020-2021 under a phased in approach. The first nine weeks will include remote learning for students while providing the opportunity for one-on-one assessment of Exceptional Children students, English Language Learners, and Pre-K. Additional information will be shared on the ECPPS website.
- ECSU will start and finish the fall semester early in an effort to avoid a potential second wave of the virus in late fall/early winter. This means students will not receive the normal breaks in their academic schedule for which they are typically accustomed. The first day of classes will be on August 11 and classes will be concluded by November 25. There will be on-campus (face-to-face) instruction, hybrid (face-to-face and remote), and off-campus (online) instruction this fall in each academic department. Classes that will be delivered remotely are specifically identified on students' schedules or can be found when they register for their classes. The majority of classes this year will be remote or offered in a hybrid format. For on campus classes, Academic Affairs has worked with each academic department to determine the ideal classroom configuration with appropriate spacing for all classrooms. Larger campus spaces that allow for physical distancing are also being considered. Classrooms will be reconfigured. Plans for New Student Convocation and Winter Commencement at a later date. ECSU full calendar can be viewed here.

- Mid-Atlantic Christian University has developed a comprehensive plan to help maintain the health and safety of her students, staff, faculty, and visitors in the wake of the COVID-19 pandemic and to be prepared for student to live on campus and classes to begin meeting in early August. The semester has been arranged into two 8-week sessions allowing students to take 2-3 courses per session. This will allow for any sudden changes to our ability to operate in person to be handled more easily as each student will only have to shift 2-3 courses to distance learning at once versus 4-6. This arrangement will also include starting and ending the semester earlier meaning students will not receive the normal breaks in their academic schedule to which they are accustomed. Seating in classrooms has been reduced and arranged to maintain the recommended 6' distance between individuals. It will be required to use face masks in our narrow, highly trafficked hallways but face masks will not be required in classrooms unless the instructor chooses.
- College of the Albemarle has developed a COVID-19 Resource Guide so staff and students can learn how COA has prepared for the fall 2020 semester.
- The U.S. Department of Education has awarded the N.C. Department of Public Instruction a \$17.6 million grant to develop innovative instructional approaches to better meet student needs during disruptions to schooling such as the current COVID-19 pandemic.
- North Carolina is one of 11 states to share in $180 million under the federal Rethink K-12 Education Models Grant program to support states' efforts to improve teaching and learning during the current crisis as well as others that may occur in the future. In North Carolina, the grant will fund an initiative to create a statewide "blended" instructional model that will combine both remote and in-person instruction. According to the state's grant proposal, the effort is aimed at stabilizing or improving student achievement during disruptions to regular school, to better prepare teachers for digital-age instruction and to strengthen preparedness by schools and communities for events that may interrupt student learning. The effort will focus primarily on 45 of the state's most rural and economically disadvantaged communities.
