Other Ways to Help

Donating gently used books to the library

Books are evaluated by staff to be either added to the library's collection, or to the perpetual Used Book Sale. Book Sale profits directly benefit library programming. Thanks for your support!

Who are the Friends?

The Friends of the Camden County Public Library is a non-profit organization made up of people who care about the future of the Camden County Public Library. Money from membership dues, the sale of book bags, together with the perpetual Used Book Sale located at the Camden County Public Library helps support library programs and services. The Friends assist with library programs and participate in community events to educate citizens about the programs as well as services offered at the Camden County Public Library.

The Friends have contributed to the Library by:

- Sponsoring author visits
- Providing funds and materials for programs not covered by the library's budget or grant funding
- Donating food, supplies, and prizes for the Summer Reading Program
- Supplementing library's book and supply budget
- Supporting library staff and volunteering as needed for programs

Why be a Friend?

Membership helps ensure a healthy future for Camden Public Library and informs county officials of the value the library provides to the community.

Upon paying their annual dues, each member of the Friends will receive a free library book bag, and two complimentary books from the Perpetual Used Book Sale.
